

JANESVILLE 5 AND MAROONS 1

SCHMIDT, ALLOWED CLINTON
TEAM BUT ONE HIT

HUTCHINSON HURT IN GAME

Collided With Catcher Pye of Visitors and One Shoulder Was Dislocated.

With fairly good support Pitcher Gus Schmidt of the Janesville City team all but shut out the noted Clinton Maroons in a game at the fair grounds yesterday afternoon. The score was 5 to 1 and the latter would not have been made had Schmidt not overthrown to first. The victory is encouraging to the locals and with the regular men in the field the team hopes to defeat Belvidere Sunday afternoon. There was a good attendance at the contest yesterday and the excellency of the playing assures a filled grand stand for the games to come.

Though the exhibition was by no means errorless, there was some good baseball playing. Walter Carle furnished the feature of the day in making a spectacular one handed pick-up, at bat he was also strong, securing two hits and three runs. Catcher Wendt surpassed all former efforts and played an almost faultless game. Schmidt allowed but one hit and struck out three men.

During the progress of the game Fred Hutchinson, who had been playing center field, "threw a cleat" while running for the home plate and in falling collided with Pitcher Pye of the visiting nine. One shoulder was dislocated but again snapped back into position as he was picked up. He was forced to leave the game and visited Dr. M. A. Cunningham. The injury was found not to be serious and it is probable that Hutchinson will again be in the game Sunday.

Rusk Lyceum Victorious.
The two literary societies of the high school played ball at Athletic park yesterday and the Rusk Lyceum team administered a crushing blow to the Forumites, who previously won by a score of 12 to 1. The Rusk boys were the victors yesterday, by a score of 23 to 2. Langdon and Campbell were the battery for the winning side while Boylan and Richards were the Forum pitchers and Burgess and Spohn the catchers.

Riverview All Stars Won
On Sloan's pasture yesterday the Riverview All Stars reversed the tables on the Ben Hur team of the town of Harmony, walloping the visitors to the tune of 16 and 9. Despite their size the boys from the country were easy money for the city lads. The victorious nine consisted of the following: c, Hammerlund; p, Noonan; 1b, Fisher; 2b, Hough; ss, Hough; 3b, Anderson; lf, Stone; cf, Smith; rf, Osborne.

Wheelmakers Defeated
The Lewis Knitting company Browns wheeled the wheelmakers from the Wisconsin Carriage company over Athletic park yesterday and when the performance was finished the score stood 6 and 4. Kline and Mills formed the battery for the Spinners and Dean pitched for the losing side.

Parker Pen Boys Lost
Prospective members of the Parker Pen company's baseball team played yesterday at Athletic park and went down to defeat before the Y. M. C. A. nine. The final score was 19 and 13. Wilkerson and Kline held the big places on the association team and Dobson and Moore were the battery for the penmakers.

St. Aloysius Boys Victors
A team representing St. Aloysius society of St. Patrick's church crossed bats with a picked team from the Y. M. C. A. at Athletic park yesterday and the final score was 7 to 3 in favor of the former. The victors secured a good lead early in the game and maintained it through the nine innings.

GOLF CLUB OPENING WAS WELL ATTENDED

Sam Echlin and Miss Spencer. Captured First Prize in Mixed Four-somes—Dance in Evening.

Good weather yesterday brought out a record-breaking attendance at the formal opening of the Mississippi Golf club's season at the links. Many of the players were on hand as early as seven o'clock in the morning and their number was materially increased as the hour for the noon luncheon approached. The afternoon brought many more, including numerous visitors from several neighboring cities. F. M. Baker, secretary of the Ridge Country club at Longwood, a suburb of Chicago, Arthur L. Johnson of Chicago, a guest of Henry Carpenter and Judge and Mrs. John Adams of Beloit were among the delegation from out of town. In the mixed foursomes Sam Echlin and Miss Hazel Spencer, with a handicap of 26, returned the lowest net score—44—and captured the first prize, a half dozen of golf balls. Leo Brownell and Miss Elizabeth Wilcox, with a handicap of 6, returned the lowest gross score—51—and the second lowest net score—45. Four golf balls were awarded them. The gross scores, handicaps, and net scores of the other contestants were as follows: A. P. Burnham and Mrs. A. J. Harris—68—55—13; A. L. Schaller and Miss Schickler—59—52—7; J. P. Baker and Miss Katherine Field—57—50—7; Wilson Lane and Miss Belle Maclean—63—59—4; W. G. Wheeler and Mrs. W. G. Wheeler—64—52—12; C. C. Maclean and Mrs. H. G. Carter—63—52—11; H. G. Carter and Mrs. F. E. Field—62—51—11. In the approaching and putting contests Miss Belle Maclean and Wilson Lane captured first place and Mrs. W. G. Wheeler and H. G. Carter, second. Dinner was served to about 150 at six o'clock and thereafter Hoy Carter and A. C. Benkert played for a dance which lasted until midnight.

The Centaurs.

The fable that the Centaurs were half man and half horse, like many other old myths, had its origin in reality. It grew out of the horseback riding habit of the Thessalians. People who had never seen a horse before took the horse and the man for one being. That is what the American Indians thought when they first saw the Spaniards on horseback.

For Thin People.

WORLD'S FAIR HOUSE.

How a Kansas City Man is Building an Odd Structure.

The World's Fair House, the new home which D. B. Dyer is building on Independence avenue, near Beaumont Station, east of Kansas City, Mo., is to be finished in about a year, says a special dispatch to the Chicago Inter Ocean. No work on the building has been done since Mr. Dyer left for his home in Augusta, Ga., last fall. At that time the roof, the exterior of the house and a part of the porch were finished. Mr. Dyer is expected to return within a few weeks, and work is to be resumed and continued in the summer.

"Altogether we have spent about eighteen months working on the house," said James O. Hogg, the architect. "Some grading was done last winter, but no work on the house is done except when Mr. Dyer is here. If we have no trouble we expect to finish in about a year."

Mr. Dyer formerly lived in Kansas City. He is now president of the electric light and street railway companies in Augusta. His home at Beaumont is being built of material purchased by him and Mr. Hogg at the Chicago and St. Louis world's fairs. He purchased the Victoria building in Chicago and the Indian Territory, Louisiana and Alabama state buildings in St. Louis. The house also is to be furnished with material purchased at the Chicago and St. Louis fairs.

Each Sunday when the weather is pleasant many persons visit the house.

BEES AS LAND PROTECTORS.

Woman's Novel Scheme to Keep Greeks From Trespassing.

Keeping a party of Greek laborers employed by a railroad off of her land by means of bees was the novel idea of a woman living several miles from Jennings, O. T., says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. All other means having failed, her husband being prevented from driving the men off with a shotgun by the authorities, she recently put her plan into execution.

Taking a number of hives, she placed them at intervals along the fence next to the railroad. When time came for the laborers to quit work they immediately started to climb over the fence. In so doing they disturbed the bees, which swarmed out and stung them on all parts of the body. Hardly one escaped without feeling the sting of one of the bees. "The faces of many of the men were swollen to twice their natural size, and it was several days before some of them were able to return to work. But they have not trespassed on the land since, although the bees have been removed."

JAP TARS AT JAMESTOWN.

Little Warriors Critically Examine Guns and Cutlasses at the Fair.

Five hundred Japanese sailors from the cruisers Tsukuba and Chitose, now a part of the Jamestown exposition naval rendezvous, recently invaded the exposition grounds, says a Norfolk (Va.) special dispatch to the New York World. Everything that the Japs came across was closely scrutinized. They not only looked at, but handled, felt and smelled things.

They were more interested in the government exhibits than anything else, and when they reached the army and navy exhibit of guns, swords, cutlasses, etc., there was a wild scramble to get their hands on them, regardless of "Hands off" signs and the admonitions of guards.

The guards were swept off their feet as the curious little warriors made a rush for the implements of war. They made a critical examination of the curve in a sword or the mechanism of the modern rifle.

Some Men.

"Some men," said Uncle Eben, "is like locomotive whistles. They don't do no particular work, but dey manages to keep a lot of people awake nights."

"Fresh 'Roasted' Coffee?—bah! Mother didn't use fresh-roasted coffee, she had Arbuckles."

The way to get a good cup of coffee that tastes like Coffee with all the delicious flavor and aroma intact, is to buy a package of the old original Arbuckles' ARBUCKLE Coffee, and grind it as you want to use it, first warming it a little to develop the flavor and make the grinding easy. Coffee loses its identity as Coffee after being ground or exposed to the air and is easily contaminated by handling.

Arbuckles' was the first roasted packaged coffee.

The pores of each coffee berry are sealed after roasting with fresh eggs and granulated sugar to hold the goodness in and make the coffee settle clear and quickly; an actual application by machinery, of "McNair's" methods—as patented by this firm.

Sold only in packages, sealed for the consumer's protection, containing one pound full weight. Sales for 37 years exceed the combined sales of all the other packaged coffees. The best coffee for you to drink, and it saves your money besides.

Beach's Peosta Soap

Whether the washing is done in the house or whether it is "put out" the Housewife who furnishes or specifies Beach's Peosta Soap for her washing knows that the clothes will be clean. That they won't be worn out by injurious rubbing on a scrub-board, and that the fibre will never be injured.

Peosta Soap cannot "eat" the clothes as it contains nothing which could injure them in the least. It saves clothes because when they have been soaked an hour in Peosta suds they are ready to "come white" with just a light rubbing. No boiling is necessary, though boiling, if preferred, does no harm.

10.—For colored cotton clothes the value of Peosta Soap cannot be over-estimated. Wash them in warm suds, rinse, starch if desired, and hang in the shade. Do not allow clothes of different colors to touch each other in the basket or on the line.

WAS MURDER AND SUICIDE

EXPLANATION OF TRAGEDY NEAR SPRINGFIELD, ILL.

Cora, Lederbrand, It is Admitted, Shot Her Sister and Herself—Had Long Been Despondent.

Springfield, Ill., May 31.—It is now accepted as a fact that Cora Lederbrand, the 17-year-old daughter of Joseph Lederbrand, a farmer residing ten miles east of this city, whose body, together with that of her sister, Carrie, aged seven, was found in the bottom of Sugar creek, near the Lederbrand home, with a .22-caliber revolver wound in the temple of each, killed her sister and then, wading into the creek, shot herself. The revolver with which the deed was done was found on the bank of the creek by Thomas Brunk, one of the searchers.

Cora Lederbrand had been in a despondent mood, and it is supposed that she made up her mind to end both her own and her sister's life. The sister was deaf and dumb and had been an invalid since her birth.

Before leaving home Wednesday afternoon Cora had telephoned her aunt, Mrs. George Lederbrand, at New City, that she was very ill and to come at once.

Then she took her sister to the creek where the tragedy took place. Lederbrand is a widower and has one arm. He has an excellent reputation.

A verdict that Carrie Lederbrand, aged seven years, came to her death by a bullet wound fired by her sister, Cora, aged 17 years, and that Cora committed suicide by shooting herself was found by a coroner's jury in the double tragedy in Cotton Hill township.

Carl H. Duncan, the young man who came here disguised and armed, and was arrested on suspicion on Tuesday, is still held at the city prison, and an extended investigation of his career and conduct is in progress here and in other cities where he lived. It is expected that he will be taken into court and be charged with carrying concealed weapons. Duncan insists he did not come to Boise to shoot anyone.

Letter to Hall &amp; Sayles, Janesville, Wis.

Gentlemen: You know diamonds don't go by size. So with paint. We make paint, one gallon of which goes as far as two of another and lasts twice as long; that's four to one.

You know it is true in diamonds;

they don't go by the gallon, do they? If you're going to paint your house, you go first to your painter and say: "I'm going to paint; do you want the job? and what'll it cost?"

If he happens to know, he'll say:

"Depends on the paint. I can do it for somewhere about $100 to $200, which ever you like. $100 will make a good job; $200 a poor one."

And you, if you happen to have your

wits, "I'll take the good one; when'll you do it?"

Painters ought, all, to know about paint; and jewelers ought to be able to get a good job. We do what we can to help both.

One gallon Devco is better than two of average paint, goes as far—that is, your house will take about 20 gallons Devco and 40 of average paint—and Devco will wear a long time; the life of a average paint is very uncertain, it may be a year, it may be five.

Why is it that painters don't know about paint? Do jewelers know about diamonds? They know more than they tell sometimes. There are painters and painters; so there are jewelers; so there is paint, and the least gallon paint is Devco. Yours truly,

SAYS REV. T. R. TROWBRIDGE

Immense Audience Participated in the Memorial Day Exercises Yesterday Afternoon.

Yesterday afternoon, for the first time this year, a holiday throng of men, women, and children invaded the Court House park. Many were there just to give themselves over to the luxury of loitering about on the green grass but the great majority assembled to welcome the parade of the War Veterans.

Shortly before two o'clock the procession, composed of over fifty members of the Grand Army, a large escort of the Spanish War Veterans, the city and drum corps, and several hundred school children, moved eastward almost the entire length of Milwaukee street, turned onto Main, and again onto Court street, wending its way up the hill and entering the park just at the rear of the courthouse. Here the soldiery formed in two parallel lines and bared their heads, as the little children passed through and entered the building.

The court chamber where the program of the day was opened, was crowded to the doors and hundreds were compelled to stand throughout the exercises. Comrade Samuel Cobb was the presiding officer and the opening number was the singing of "Columbia" by the school children, with Daniel Bennett acting as conductor. Rev. Robert C. Denison offered the invocation, asking the blessing of the Most High on the young men who demonstrated by their valor in this country's last conflict that the blood of the fathers is their heritage; the women who have been tireless in their ministry; and the Old Soldiers, to whom the day belongs.

The male trio composed of Col. E. O. Kimberley, Prof. H. C. Buell, and Daniel Bennett sang a very spirited and impressive hymn to "Liberty and Country" in a manner which moved their auditors to prolonged applause and after the conclusion of this number Miss Mina C. Cutler unfolded with remarkable fidelity and charm the fascinating story of an incident in Lincoln's life, supposed to have occurred the day after his delivery of the Gettysburg address—a recital requiring the reproduction of the dialogue of three different characters.

The demonstration of approval for this carefully prepared and difficult effort was so long continued that Col. Cobb had to request the audience not to insist upon encore.

Rev. T. R. Trowbridge of Rockford, himself a veteran of the Civil War, was the orator of the day. He began his exordium with the postulate, so frequently challenged by the scientist, that man is the sole object of the Great Purpose and Plan. All Nature, animate and inanimate, was pictured as anxiously awaiting his coming. The metal said: I shall be obliged to remain in union with dress until his advent; and the ocean said: "Until he has arrived I shall not be appreciated." Even the bovines said: "We shall do something besides raise calves—we shall nourish the infant man."

But man has never flourished alone and self has invariably proven to be a very poor thing indeed. The libraries and the musical instruments which we find in our homes tell us of our dependence on man. Little Greece, between the years 500 to 300 B. C., gave the world some grand men who were destined to never die. Her Parthenon is in ruins but those men still live to bless us. And if the individual man does not exist and if for himself alone, the same is true of the existence about him. From the moment the apple tree sends its shoot through the ground its purpose is to produce apples—not for itself but for somebody else.

God's four purposes, as the speaker discerned them, are Righteousness, Intelligence, Liberty, and Wisdom. Liberty is brought about by legislation and battles and there has been continuity and a steadfast purpose visible in all history from the beginning.

In the first pivotal battle fought 490 years before Christ 10,000 Greeks under Miltiades defeated 100,000 Persians and turned the tide of orientalism back upon itself. The defeat and annihilation of Haxdrubal's forces by the Romans in 207 B. C. crushed the last hope of Hannibal and the Carthaginians. The Romans overthrew the Athenians in 404 B. C. and in 453 A. D. the last Roman general triumphed over Attila and the Huns. At Tours in 732 Charles Martel turned back the Mohammedan invasion; at Orleans in 1429 a maid with a silken banner saved the French; in 1558 the Spanish Armada was destroyed; in 1777 Burgoyne and his English army surrendered to the Americans; and in 1815 Napoleon was overthrown by the Allies at Waterloo. The last crowning battle, not only for this nation but for all the world, was fought at Gettysburg in 1863. Thus has God revealed his purposes in the destiny of nations.

By inference, at least, the speaker concluded the impression that America was to be the cap of the planet and Americans the Chosen People. For, after discussing the visible working out of the principle of evolution in raising lower forms to higher and better planes, he said that the Star of Empire, rising in Chaldea, and moving across Asia, Europe, and America in the course of ages, had seen itself reflected in the Pacific and had said: "There is no use of going further and retracing my course; I'll stay here."

Whereupon it had divided into 45 stars and these were destined to shine forever.

From any possible standpoint this was to be the theater of action of a very great and blessed people.

The great men and women God has given us are in every instance the fulfillment of prophecy. We see Abraham and we wait for Moses. Moses is the prophecy of Solomon and Solomon is the prophecy of Jesus. And now we are waiting for the angels from Bethlehem and the Apostles from who is to come after Him. So, in seeing George Washington, we wait for Abraham Lincoln. In all of these things there is a plain declaration that God is with us; and that if we ever need another Sheridan, or Grant, or Sherman, He who has so enriched us will provide.

In Abraham Lincoln's preparations for the part he was to play—the death of his mother at an early age which was to soften his heart and give him a store of sympathy for his fellow men; in his experience in conflict as a captain (private) in the Blackhawk war; in his chance observation of a touching incident in the slave market at New Orleans; in the books he read; Aeschylus' fables, Pilgrim's Progress, Shakespeare and the Bible; in all of these things the speaker saw the hand of Providence plainly indicated. He said that Lincoln was the greatest Commoner who had ever lived. He drew from a seemingly inexhaustible store of anecdotes to throw sidelights on his marvellous career; and he reached to Niagara Falls, to the giant redwoods of California, to the pyramid of Cheops, and to the New Testament itself for figures of speech with which to apotheosize the Great Emancipator.

The address was thoughtful and eloquent, crowded with an almost bewildering array of classical and historical allusions, and thoroughly pleased the large audience which continued to cheer long after the concluding word had been spoken.

The school children, recovered from the stage fright which had somewhat hampered them at first, gave an inspiring rendition of "Tenting Tonight." Miss Cutler gave another patriotic reading—a tribute to the survivors of war; the trio sang "Sleep and Rest"; and the school children closed the program with their Memorial Day song.

SHORT TALKS BY
L. T. COOPER.

CHRONIC CRANKS.

We have met people who are continually kicking. Life seems a terrible thing to them. They seldom smile. Something dreadful is going to happen, nothing is ever just right, and they worry and fret and complain from morning till night.

Their trouble seems to be just a bad disposition. It is seldom so. In most cases there is one of two things the matter with them; either their nerves or their digestion is responsible. Both come from the same thing—stomach trouble. A man or woman whose nerves are tied in knots is bound to be a nervous poor company. The same thing is true if what they eat don't digest properly. No wonder they grumble. I don't blame them.

I have seen Cooper's New Discovery change the whole disposition of people in a month's time simply by getting their stomach in shape again. Even the expression on their faces was altogether different. The worried, tired, fretful look changed to a peaceful happy expression, and the lines of care disappeared altogether. Many people tell me about this in letters. They seem to think it a miracle. It isn't. It's just the stomach working again.

Here's a case of this kind: "I suffered with my stomach for thirteen years. Nothing I ate seemed to digest. I also had chronic constipation, and was tired, dull, irritable and despondent all the time. I found it difficult to attend to my duties as a business agent at this place."

"Six different doctors treated me and all gave different opinions."

"I began taking Cooper's New Discovery, and to my surprise it helped me from the first. I have gained ten pounds in three weeks and am feeling fine. My work now is a pleasure, where before it was drudgery." J. R. Smock, Cicero, Indiana.

MOVEMENT FOR A
DRUM CORPS OF
FIFTEEN PIECES

Was Started Yesterday—Members of Spanish War Veterans' Camp Interested.

As a result of the difficulty with which a drum corps was organized for the Memorial day celebration here yesterday a movement was launched for the establishment of a regulation corps of fourteen or fifteen pieces. Old age and rheumatism are fast incapacitating the men who learned the material is brought into service life after the civil war and unless new material was brought into service life and drum corps, which are now very scarce, will only be memories.

Members of Harry L. Gifford Camp, United Spanish War Veterans, are interested in the project and at their next regular meeting the matter of organizing a corps will be discussed and voted upon. About fifteen dollars was voluntarily contributed yesterday toward a fund for the purchase of drums and fifes and uniforms.

If the Spanish war veterans had the proposition local residents who are interested in the various patriotic societies and in organizations belonging to Janesville will be asked to make small contributions, but a hundred or a hundred and fifty dollars being needed for equipping a good drum corps of eight snare-drums, one bass-drum and six fifes.

Notwithstanding the absence from the city of the president, who has been a conspicuous figure in several previous Memorial day exercises at the national cemetery at Arlington, the arrangements there were elaborate. They were under the direction of the Grand Army, Spanish War Veterans, Army and Navy Union, Sons of Veterans and the various women's auxiliaries.

James M. Dalzell, of Ohio, delivered the oration at St. Elizabeth's cemetery, and paid a tribute to the memory of his comrades.

"Corporal" James Tanner, past commander-in-chief G. A. R., was the orator of the day at Arlington. Monuments erected to the memory of Maj. Gen. Joseph A. Mower, erected by the Society of the Army of the Tennessee, and Maj. Gen. Benjamin Kelley, erected by the Society of the Army of West Virginia, were unveiled.

EXERCISES AT NEW YORK.

Immense Parade, the Chief Feature of Celebration.

New York, May 31.—Through lines of cheering thousands, veterans of two wars, young men of the militia and cadets, passed in review Thursday. There were three parades—one in Manhattan, another in the Bronx and a third in Brooklyn, all much the same, but the most impressive ones were reserved for the time worn veterans whose tattered battle flags were greeted, with uncovered heads.

Time was when the memorial day parade in Manhattan of the Grand Army of the Republic was hours passing the reviewing stand. Thursday, one hour and 40 minutes sufficed to bring the veterans and the guard of honor, made up of nearly all the regiments of the national guard and two regiments of the regular army, before Gen. O. O. Howard and the military officers who occupied the reviewing stand at Eighty-ninth street and Riverside Drive.

Following the parade in Manhattan there were services at the Soldiers' and Sailors' monument, while in Brooklyn the 6,000 veterans visited Cypress Hill cemetery, where upon soldiers' graves flowers were placed by the girls of the Columbian Guard of Honor.

Senator Foraker the Orator. Steubenville, O., May 31.—United States Senator Joseph Benson Foraker was the principal speaker here Thursday at the Memorial day exercises held at the Soldiers' and Sailors' monument in the Union cemetery. About 5,000 people assembled to hear him speak and his address was applauded frequently.

Senator Foraker met with an enthusiastic reception at the Pennsylvania station on his arrival, fully 1,000 persons being gathered there to greet him, including 200 colored citizens who gave him a hearty welcome. He was escorted by the Uniformed Rank Woodmen and the civil and Spanish war veterans to the residence of George N. Henry, where luncheon was served.

Honor Memory of Sailors. St. Louis, Mo., May 31.—Cheered by thousands of spectators assembled on Eads bridge and the levee, flower-covered models of the Monitor and Merrimac were launched on the Mississippi river Thursday in memory of the naval heroes whose remains sank beneath the waters in the river battles during the civil war. The models were constructed by Lawrence Fay, a naval veteran who was an eye-witness of the fight between the original battle crafts.

At Lincoln's Tomb. Springfield, Ill., May 31.—Col. C. G. Mathews, Illinois department commander of the G. A. R., delivered the chief address at the Memorial exercises at Lincoln's tomb Thursday. At Camp Butler cemetery the graves of 1,200 federal and 700 confederate soldiers were decorated, an address being made by the Rev. C. G. Cantrell, of Springfield.

Lutheran Synod Adjourns. Sunbury, Pa., May 31.—The general synod of the Lutheran Church of America adjourned Thursday. The synod accepted the invitation of St. Paul's church, Richmond, Ind., as the place for their next meeting.

SCARCELY A FARMER

Backwardness of Season Compelled
Tillers of Soil to Take Advantage of Good Weather.

Ideal farming weather made it impossible for the tillers of the soil in this part of the country to fittingly observe Memorial day. The backwardness of the season compelled every farmer to take the advantage for work offered yesterday and workmen were busy in nearly every field. The few crops that have appeared above ground look well but are far behind those of other years.

MEMORIAL DAY AT NATIONAL CAPITAL

ENTIRE CITY JOINS IN IMPRES-SIVE CEREMONIES.

Elaborate Services at Arlington—New York Honors Living and Dead
Veterans—Foraker Speaks at Steubenville, O.

Washington, May 31.—With solemn and impressive ceremonies Memorial day was observed in the national capital on a more elaborate scale than usual. Business was suspended, not only in the departments of the government but also throughout the city. People of all classes united in perpetuating the memory of the thousands of heroic dead in the eight national cemeteries in the vicinity of Washington. Soldiers' monuments and statues on the government reservations were flag-draped; flags on all the public buildings were at half-mast and the national colors, with the folds caught in the bands of crape, were displayed from hundreds of private residences.

Notwithstanding the absence from the city of the president, who has been a conspicuous figure in several previous Memorial day exercises at the national cemetery at Arlington, the arrangements there were elaborate. They were under the direction of the Grand Army, Spanish War Veterans, Army and Navy Union, Sons of Veterans and the various women's auxiliaries.

Following the parade in Manhattan there were services at the Soldiers' and Sailors' monument, while in Brooklyn the 6,000 veterans visited Cypress Hill cemetery, where upon soldiers' graves flowers were placed by the girls of the Columbian Guard of Honor.

Senator Foraker the Orator. Steubenville, O., May 31.—United States Senator Joseph Benson Foraker was the principal speaker here Thursday at the Memorial day exercises held at the Soldiers' and Sailors' monument in the Union cemetery. About 5,000 people assembled to hear him speak and his address was applauded frequently.

Senator Foraker met with an enthusiastic reception at the Pennsylvania station on his arrival, fully 1,000 persons being gathered there to greet him, including 200 colored citizens who gave him a hearty welcome. He was escorted by the Uniformed Rank Woodmen and the civil and Spanish war veterans to the residence of George N. Henry, where luncheon was served.

Honor Memory of Sailors. St. Louis, Mo., May 31.—Cheered by thousands of spectators assembled on Eads bridge and the levee, flower-covered models of the Monitor and Merrimac were launched on the Mississippi river Thursday in memory of the naval heroes whose remains sank beneath the waters in the river battles during the civil war. The models were constructed by Lawrence Fay, a naval veteran who was an eye-witness of the fight between the original battle crafts.

At Lincoln's Tomb. Springfield, Ill., May 31.—Col. C. G. Mathews, Illinois department commander of the G. A. R., delivered the chief address at the Memorial exercises at Lincoln's tomb Thursday. At

In the Face of Competition

We have secured fifteen per cent. of the cigar business of this country.

How?

By making better cigars of every grade than any other manufacturer has produced, and telling the truth about them.

By making the strongest definite claims that any cigar manufacturer ever dared to make—and by living up to them.

By marking the boxes of our standard brands with the Triangle A so that every smoker of this country could shut down on the hit-or-miss way of buying cigars on anybody's say-so, and make his selections from brands that he knows are the best his money can pay for—better in every way—quality and grading of leaf, evenness of blend, and perfection of condition.

Now put that to the test. Smoke a cigar of some brand bearing the "A" (Triangle A) and find out. You can't do better than begin with

A MAKER OF HISTORY

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM,
Copyright, 1905, 1906, by LITTLE, BROWN and COMPANY.

"I learnt that my friend Sir George Duncombe was here, and I desired to see him," he rejoined.

"She shrugged her dainty shoulders. "You will wait," she directed. Then she turned to Duncombe and handed him a sealed envelope.

"If you please," she said, "will you read that now?"

He tore it open and read the few hasty lines. Then he looked up and met the marquise's expectant gaze.

"Madame," he said slowly, "does this come from Miss Poynton of her own free will?"

She laughed insolently.

"Monsieur," she said, "my guests are subject to no coercion in this house."

He bowed and turned toward the door.

"Your answer, monsieur?" she called out.

"There is no answer," he replied.

CHAPTER XXIX.

THE marquise made a wry face at his departing figure, which changed swiftly into a smile as she turned to the young vicomte.

"Ah, these Englishmen!" she exclaimed. "These dull, good, obstinate, stupid pigs of Englishmen! If they would lose their tempers—once get angry, anything! Do they make love as coldly, I wonder?"

"Dear cousin," he answered, "I do not know. But if you will permit me I will show you."

"Henri!"

He sighed.

"You are so adorable, Angele," he murmured.

"And you," she answered, "are so indiscreet. It is not your day, and I am expecting Gustave at any moment. I have left word that he is to be shown up here. There, my hand for one moment. Not so roughly, sir. And now tell me why you came."

"On a diplomatic errand, my dear cousin. I must see Miss Poynton."

She touched a bell.

"I will send for her," she said. "I shall not let you see her alone. She is much too good looking, and you are far too impressionable."

He looked at her reproachfully.

"Angele," he said, "you speak so of a young English miss—to me, Henri de Bergillac—to me who has known—who knows?"

She interrupted him laughing. "The exaggerated devotion of his manner seemed to amuse her."

"My dear Henri," she said, "I do not believe that even a young English miss is safe from you. But attend. She comes."

Phyllis entered the room and came toward them. She was dressed in black, and she was still pale, but her eyes and mouth were wholly without affinity to the class of young person whom Henri had expected to see. He rose and bowed, and Phyllis regarded him with frank interest.

"Phyllis," the marquise said, "this is the Vicomte de Bergillac, and he brings you messages from some one or other. Your affairs are quite too complicated for my little head. Sit down and let him talk to you."

"If M. le Vicomte has brought me messages from the right person," Phyllis said, with a smile, "he will be very welcome. Seriously, monsieur, I seem to have fallen among friends here whose only unkindness is an apparent desire to turn my life into a maze. I hope that you are going to lead me out."

"I can conceive, mademoiselle," the vicomte answered, with his hand upon his heart, "no more delightful undertaking."

"Then I am quite sure," she answered, laughing softly, "that we are both going to be very happy. Please go on!"

"Mademoiselle speaks delightful French," he murmured, a little surprised.

"And, monsieur, I can see," she answered, "is an apt flatterer. Afterward as much as you please. But now, well, I want to hear about Guy."

"Mademoiselle has commanded," he said, with a little gesture. "To proceed then. M. Guy is well and is my constant companion. He is with friends who wish him well, and this morning, mademoiselle, the president himself has given written orders to the police to proceed no further in the unfortunate little affair of which mademoiselle has knowledge."

Phyllis had lost all her pallor. She smiled delightedly upon him. Mme. le Marquise rose with a little impatient movement and walked to the further end of the room.

"How nice of you to come and tell me this," she exclaimed, "and what a relief. I am sure I think he is very fortunate to have made such good friends."

"Mademoiselle," he declared with emphasis, "one at least of these friends is more than repaid."

She laughed back into his eyes, frankly amused by his gallantry.

"And now," she said, "we come to the beginning of the riddles. Why is it necessary for him to be supposed drowned if he is no longer in danger from the police?"

"Ah, mademoiselle," he said, "I must speak to you now of strange things, but first I must implore you to promise me this and remember it always! Every word that I am going to say to you now must remain for the present, a profound secret. That is agreed?"

Phyllis entered the room and came toward them.

"Certainly," she answered.

"Your brother," he continued, "in his travels on the continent stumbled, by chance upon a state secret, of international importance. He had himself no idea of it, but a chance word which he let fall on the first evening I met him gave the clue to myself and some friends. In his enforced retirement we have from him the whole story of his adventure. It has placed the government of this country under great obligations. This, together with your service to us, has secured his pardon."

"This is wonderful!" she murmured.

"It is not all," he continued. "The spies of the country where he learned this secret have followed him to Paris. They are today searching for him everywhere. If they knew that he realized the importance of what he had seen and had communicated it to the proper persons here our advantage in knowing it would be largely lost. So far they have not traced him. Now I think that you have the key to what must have puzzled you so much."

"This is wonderful!" she murmured.

"Let me think for a moment."

"You are naturally anxious," the vicomte continued, "to see your brother. Before very long, mademoiselle, I trust that it may be my pleasure to bring you together, but when I tell you that you are watched continually in the hope that through you your brother's hiding place may be found you will understand the wisdom which for the present keeps you apart."

"I suppose so," she answered dubiously. "But now that his death is reported?"

"Exactly, mademoiselle. The affair has been arranged so that the search for your brother be abandoned and the espionage on you removed. If the story of his doings in Paris and the tragic sequel to them be believed by those whom we wish to believe it, then they will also assume that his secret has died with him; and that their schemes move on toward success. You understand?"

"Yes, M. le Vicomte, I understand," she answered slowly. "What, then, do you wish me to do?"

"Mademoiselle," the vicomte answered, "for you there remains the hardest of all tasks—inaction. Believe me that when I came here it was not my intention to put the truth of the matter so plainly before you. Neither was it the will of those whose orders I carry out. But I, mademoiselle, before all things I believe in inspiration. I find in mademoiselle," he bowed once more—"qualities which alter the situation. I—a judge of faces, as I venture to believe myself—have looked into

Little Individualism There.

Why Public Ownership is Popular in European Countries.

In Europe governments are largely paternal because of the lack of individualism. The very helplessness of the people fosters and necessitates paternalism. That is why national and municipal governments operate public utilities. Under a monarchy, for that reason, the tendency of the people is naturally toward socialism.

The phenomenal growth and prosperity of the United States have been attained without either paternalism or socialism. Compare the condition of the people here, their better living, their comfort and happiness, with the condition of the people of the nations of Europe, and there is only one conclusion—that is that for us individualism is the state policy, and we do not have to borrow the institutions of foreign nations created by a need from which we are free. It is just because of our individualism that socialistic institutions and co-operative schemes never prosper here.—Newark (N. J.) Advertiser.

FOR EXTENSION OF RAILROAD CONTROL

KEYNOTE OF PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS AT INDIANAPOLIS.

FIRM BUT FAIR POLICY

Boon to Public and to Corporations Seen in Wise National Regulation—Men of Predatory Wealth a Peril.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 31.—After paying a tribute to the men who gave up their lives that the union might be maintained, and after speaking in praise of the gallantry, patriotism and devotion of Gen. Lawton, President Roosevelt Thursday turned his attention in his address at the Lawton monument unveiling to the economic problems of the hour, making particular and pointed reference to the matter of federal control of the railroads.

The speech was sharp and indicative of a purpose not to turn back from the attempt to check the tendency of certain corporations to violate the spirit and the letter of existing laws. Mr. Roosevelt declared that further government control of carrier corporations would be sought, but he declared also that federal operation of the railways was neither wise nor desirable.

Greater Peril Than Anarchists.
The president made the flat statement that the country is in greater peril from the predatory rich than it is from the socialists and anarchists. He inveighed against the evils of over-capitalization and recommended that the government be given power to take account of the physical properties of the railways. He touched on the evils of car shortages and made recommendations for their correction.

The speech places the president in a still more advanced position on economic subjects, but all through its course there was expressed the determination to see that no legitimate business interest should suffer. The principal points made in the address, which was lengthy, follow:

Stop Crimes of Cunning.
"The power of the nation must be exerted to stop crimes of cunning no less than crimes of violence."

S.S.S. DRIVES OUT RHEUMATISM

The cause of Rheumatism is a sour, acid condition of the blood, brought about by indigestion, chronic constipation, and the accumulation in the system of refuse matter which the natural eliminative organs have failed to carry out. This refuse or waste matter ferments and sours, generating uric acid which is absorbed into the blood and distributed to all parts of the body, and Rheumatism gets possession of the system. One may also be born with a predisposition or tendency to Rheumatism, because like all blood diseases it can be transmitted from parent to child. The aches and pains of the disease are only symptoms which you may scatter or relieve with liniments, plasters, blisters, etc., or deaden with opiates. As soon, however, as such treatment is left off or there is any exposure to cold or dampness, or after an attack of indigestion or constipation, the wandering pains, sore muscles and joints, and tender places on the flesh return, and the sufferer finds that he has merely checked the symptoms while the real cause of the disease remains in the blood. Rheumatism can never be cured while the blood remains saturated with irritating, pain-producing uric acid poison. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism by driving the cause out of the blood. It thoroughly cleanses the blood and renovates the circulation by neutralizing the acids and expelling all foreign matter from the system. S. S. S. stimulates and invigorates the blood so that instead of a weak, sour stream, constantly depositing acid and corrosive matter in the muscles, joints, nerves and bones, the body is soothed and nourished by rich, health-sustaining blood, which completely and permanently cures Rheumatism. S. S. S. is composed of roots, herbs and barks which possess both purifying and tonic properties—just what is needed in every case of Rheumatism. ## BRYAN CRITICISES NEW RAILROAD LAW

SEES NO GOOD EFFECTS OF RECENT LEGISLATION.

INCOME TAX FAVORED

In Address at Norfolk, Va., Democratic Leader Makes Severe Criticisms on Policies of the Party in Power.

Norfolk, Va., May 31.—The anniversary of the passage by the Virginia house of burgesses on May 30, 1765, of Patrick Henry's famous resolution against the British stamp act was celebrated at the Jamestown exposition Thursday with William Jennings Bryan as the central figure of attraction in a speech delivered in the convention hall on the exposition grounds before 2,000 people on the subject, "Taxation without Representation Is Tyranny."

Following the reading by President Tucker of the original stamp act resolutions, Dr. Phillip Aylett Fitzhugh, of New York, great-grandson of Patrick Henry, was introduced and given a hearty greeting by the audience, which arose and cheered the venerable descendant of Henry. The singing of "Yankee Doodle," by the children was followed by the singing of "Dixie," which brought forth great applause. Congressman Frank T. Laster, of the fourth Virginia district, in introducing Mr. Bryan, referred to United States Senator John W. Daniel, which was the signal for wild cheers for the Virginia statesman.

Our Rule in Philippines.

Mr. Bryan dwelt on American rules in the Philippine islands, declaring that we are making laws for the government of the Philippines under which we would not live ourselves, and compared the American rule of the Philippines to the British rule of the American colonies prior to the revolutionary war. He said that while he had frequently said in the north that the black man was taxed in the south without representation he had likewise said that the white man of the south are themselves living under the same laws which they made to affect the negro.

He said of the two systems of taxation, direct and indirect, the direct plan is by far the safest. He favored strongly an income tax.

The speaker discussed federal ownership of railroads, but said that after all he wondered if more was not to be gained for the people by discussing and fighting the corporations.

Against New Rate Law.

Continuing, Mr. Bryan said: "What is the effect of our new rate law which was so hard to get? There are two effects so far. One is it stopped rebates; that is good, but what was the pecuniary effect? Why, the railroads keep the money they paid to the favored shippers, that is, the railroads got more money out of this. What was the other effect? It stopped passes. What did that do? It gave to the railroads the money that the fellows used to save that rode on passes. So far we have increased the revenues of the road and that is all that law has done thus far; and when the various states said, 'Well, now, we have given you this advantage by stopping rebates and passes we will reduce passenger rates and make you divide with the people' and in some states they have reduced the passenger rates; the railroads in some cases are so ungrateful for what has been given them that they go into the court to try to keep the people from having the benefit of the two-cent rate law."

Wild Rabbits in Chimney.
An Atherton (England) sweep named Joshua Folland was sweeping the chimney of a home which had been unoccupied for some time at High Beckington, when, to his great surprise, he swept down seven full-grown live wild rabbits, which he bagged.

FRANK O. BRIGGS

United States Senator Frank O. Briggs of New Jersey, who recently succeeded Senator Dryden, was originally trained for the army, and served for a number of years in the regular army. He resigned about 30 years ago to accept a position with the John A. Roebling Sons' company. He has for many years been the assistant treasurer of this big company, but has always been a salaried man, and is accounted only a poor man as United States senators go. His first political post was that of member of the state board of education of New Jersey. He next served a term as mayor of Trenton, and in 1904 he was made chairman of the republican state central committee of New Jersey. Senator Briggs was next appointed state treasurer, and was holding this office when elected United States senator.

Embarrassed by a Bulldog.
Walter Godden of the Tinkiepaugh laundry, while making his rounds for laundry, was pursued by a bulldog, which seized his clothing at the sitting-down part and tore out a good-sized piece. The young man was compelled to disappear from the public streets until he had made a change of clothing.--Olean (N. Y.) Herald.

WHERE SUIT FASHIONS ARE EXEMPLIFIED

Rehberg's Clothing Stocks Represent the Very Proper Ideas, at the Very Minimum of Expenditure.

It is wrong to be envious, yet, that wee, small voice whispers, often in the ear, of many a fellow, on the clothing proposition. One can dispel the chance for envy by having his own outfit satisfactory, in other words, as good as the other fellow's--it's so easy, too.

HAVE YOU $12.00?

That is all you require to accomplish the desired proper dress result. We have Suits at $12 which really equal the regulation $15 suits sold usually. The cloth is strong, the patterns are pretty--just as nice as you find in the higher priced suits--grays, plaids, blacks and blues; coats cut 31 inches, semi-form back, generous sized shoulders; pants cut to hang well, of the proper leg width, etc.; really worth $15.00. Our price.....

There is no taste that need go slighted in this stock--in fact, if your pocket and ideas demand suits of the better grade--suits which size up stitch for stitch, point for point with made to order clothes, we want you to see and try on those priced at $15.00, $18.00, $20.00, $22.50 and $25.00. The lapels, collars and fitting qualities generally are right; the patterns so varied and handsome as to catch your fancy.

HAVE YOU SHIVERED ENOUGH?

Top Coats or Cravenettes reduce the shiver to a pleasant, warm, comfortable, well-dressed feeling, splendid assortment at.....

THE CHICAGO PACKERS

A merry war is on, just now, between the Chicago packing-houses and the commission men, on account of an order recently issued by the former, that they would no longer stand the losses on cattle afflicted with tubercular diseases.

The federal government, as well as the state, inspects all animals slaughtered at the Union stockyards, and the losses from this inspection, amounting to many thousand dollars every month, has heretofore been born by the packers.

It finally became so burdensome that they refused longer to submit, and so served notice to the commission men through whom the stock is secured.

This arbitrary ruling of the packers is both just and right, and will be so regarded by all fair-minded people. There is no reason why the packer should be obliged to pay for diseased meat which he buys unwittingly. The loss should fall where it belongs, upon the original shipper.

Tuberculosis is a common disease, but its presence can be detected by an inexpensive test and under state supervision. The law, in many states provides for this test, and in Wisconsin it is rigidly enforced.

A man who would continue to milk a cow that had been condemned, would be severely criticised, and the carcass would certainly be considered an unsafe diet. The fact that the disease is not discovered until the animal is slaughtered, is no excuse, and in no way shifts the responsibility of loss. Let the herds be examined before they are shipped and there will be no occasion for complaint. The packers are in the right, and public sentiment will endorse their action.

GOLD MOVEMENTS

Gold movements into the United States in the fiscal year which ends with next month will exceed those of any earlier year, and the excess of imports over exports of this metal will also probably be greater than in any earlier fiscal or calendar year.

The ten months' figures of the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor now available show gold importations amounting to $109,616,707 and gold exportations of but $23,003,407, making the excess of imports over exports in the ten months $86,613,300; while for the twelve months ending with April the imports of gold are $146,896,515, and the exports $31,981,947, making the excess of imports over exports for that period $114,914,568. The largest importations of gold over occurring in any fiscal year were $120,391,674 in 1898 and $100,031,259 in 1881, while in no other fiscal year has the total of gold imports ever crossed the 100-million-dollar line. The exports of gold, as above indicated, are for the ten months ending with April $23,003,407, and for the twelve months ending with April $31,981,947, making the net imports, or excess of imports over exports, $86,613,300 in the ten months ending with April and $114,914,568 in the twelve months ending with April.

A comparison of these figures of excess of imports over exports with those of previous years indicates that unless a marked change shall occur during the next two months in the general movements of gold into and out of the United States, the net imports for the full fiscal year about to and will be larger than ever before. The only fiscal year in which the net imports of gold, or excess of imports over exports, exceeded 100 millions was 1898, when the figure of net imports was $104,985,283. The nearest approach to the 100-million-dollar line on any other occasion was in 1881, when the net importation of gold was $97,466,127.

This flow of gold toward the United States in excess of the outward movement has been observable during nearly the entire fiscal year, the excess of imports over exports showing a wide range from month to month, but averaging about 8 1/2 million per month, that of April, 1907, being about 2 1/2 million dollars, indicating that the inward flow is still in excess of the outward movement, and that the excess of imports of gold over exports of that metal during the fiscal year about to end may probably, barring some sudden change in the general movement, exceed that of any preceding year.

Silver movements into and out of the country seem likely to show a smaller excess of exports over imports in the fiscal year about to end than on any occasion during the past decade. Movements of silver into and out of the United States are in each case large, the inflow coming chiefly from Mexico. This large movement of silver into the United States, already a great silver-producing country, is due largely to the fact that her facilities for smelting and refining are more satisfactory than those of her silver-producing neighbor, Mexico, and that Mexican silver moves to the smelting and refining establishments of the United States, a part of it coming in lead ore and a part in the form of base bullion. The largest imports of silver in any full fiscal year were those of 1906, $41,442,540, and those of the present fiscal year seem likely to be about the same. The largest exports of silver in any fiscal year occurred also in 1906, $65,869,063, and has been continuously above the 20-million-dollar line (and in some cases above 30 millions) since 1893; but the present indications are that the excess of exports over imports will, in 1907, be far below that of any other year in the period just named. For the ten months ending with April, 1907, the excess of exports of silver over imports of that metal was $11,194,205, and for the twelve months ending with April, $13,086,196, against $21,426,523 in the fiscal year 1906.

The many friends of the Chicago Chronicle will regret to learn that it has been obliged to suspend publication. The paper has long been recognized as one of the cleanest and best edited papers in the country. Fearless and forceful it has handled public questions without favor and with a loyalty to the best interests of Chicago, voted for hard practical common sense. Its suspension will create a vacancy in the field of western journalism, that can not be readily filled.

The legislature is not in session this afternoon. They are resting to begin a new attack on Monday next and then they mean to get down to real hard work. The farmer members have not cared heretofore, as the corn had not started, but they think it will soon be along and they mean to be there to help it grow.

Janesville will have to sit up and notice next week when that revival begins. It is convenient to so many of the evils it combats that its success will be watched with interest. It may now be said that the golf season has officially begun.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road is steadily pushing its lines towards the Pacific coast and they will soon reach there, despite all talk to the contrary.

Clinton counts much on its Home-Coming to boom the town. Perhaps it will, but a good oldtime Nonesuch Bros' circus in Janesville would do much to liven affairs up here.

If anyone doubts whether Roosevelt is the most popular candidate, or disavowed candidate for president, let them try to tell the people so and see where they will land.

Senator Bailey of Texas has found out that he is not half as big a man as he thought he was before the state of Texas got after the Standard Oil trust.

So Dowie's realm of imagination, the city without peer in the world, may soon be sold to settle up Dowie's estate and Voliva, the Apostle who drove Elijah Second to the grave, cast into outer darkness.

This afternoon for the first time in the history of western aquatics, a Syracuse University crew is racing against the Badger eight at Madison.

No one has heard of Tillman for some weeks past. Has his press agent gone on a vacation or is the Senator merely resting for a new attack?

That new capital building at six millions will be a daisy, but not a bit too good for the daisy state it represents.

The Milwaukee Wisconsin takes a slur at the state University, believing the words of a press agent for a small medical school.

In lieu of anything else to talk about, weather barred, fish stories can be told before a good cosy grate fire.

Now the University students are going to test the qualities of the railway bridges as to their safety.

No one complained because yesterday was a holiday, especially the poor over-worked banker.

Strange as it may seem wheat is as good as a dollar and makes good the oldtime saying.

They are still digging that Panama canal, even though nothing is being said about it.

The Bryan boom is not over—merely sleeping. It will wake some day soon.

A. F. Lee Receives Sad Tidings of the Passing of Mrs. Anne M. Woodridge.

Sad tidings have reached A. F. Lee of the death at Rochester, Minn., yesterday of Mrs. Anne M. Woodridge, whose maiden name was Anne M. Lee. She is survived by a son, Harry, three brothers—A. F., J. L., and L. H. Lee; and one sister—Mrs. Lucy J. Parke. The deceased would have been sixty-four years old next month, had she lived. She spent a large part of her life in Janesville, but left here in 1870.

WET SPRING HAS

HELPED BEET CROP

Hardy Vegetables Have Flourished

Under Conditions Unfavorable to Other Plants.

In speaking of the present outlook on sugar beets Lafayette Myers of the Rock County Sugar company had the following to say:

"On account of the backward season sugar beets will probably be the most profitable crop this year. Beets that have been already planted are showing an excellent stand and a vigorous and healthy growth. A cold and wet May has never been a damage to a beet crop. Almost every year more or less replanting of beets is necessary but this year the beets are coming on so well that only one necessary case of replanting has been reported."

"The ground is now in excellent condition for planting and from this time on we have found that some of our best and largest yields in tonnage and sugar per cent have come from fields planted about this time up until the 10th or 12th of June, and especially this year I would consider from now on until that date the ideal planting season."

"I am sure that from the present condition and growth of most of the tobacco plants that I have seen, beets planted now will produce the best paying crops of the two this year, even if the price of tobacco should be as high as it was last season. Tobacco land on account of its general high state of fertilization always under ordinary conditions produces from $75 to $125 worth of beets per acre and it would seem to me that some of the large acreage intended for tobacco this year should be planted to beets within the next ten or twelve days."

"The question of help in the beet fields will not be any drawback this year on account of the enormous increase of immigration. The company has at its disposal over 200 laborers, the greater number of which are experienced beet workers. Thinking on the early planting will begin next Monday. From the general looks of the fields already planted and the excellent condition of the ground for present planting, I would consider that this year's beet crop will be one of the best ever grown."

CROWDS GREET THE PRESIDENT.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 31.—The president's trip from Bellefontaine, where he first appeared in public Thursday morning, to Indianapolis, was a continued ovation. At all places where the train stopped, starting at Bellefontaine and including Sidney, O., and Union City, Muncie and Anderson, Ind., great crowds were gathered and pressed around the president's car. At several places the president made brief remarks in keeping with the day, and at others he shook hands with as many of the people as could get near him.

At Bellefontaine, O., where it was generally known his train would stop, the largest crowd was on hand. Here Vice President Fairbanks introduced Mr. Roosevelt in a few words, to which the president responded, speaking briefly of good citizenship, reminding the veterans who were assembled that the day was especially their day and declaring that what impressed him most in this country was the fundamental unity of people.

The train bearing the president left here for Fort Wayne, Ind., where he passed the night on his car. Stops were made at Anderson and Muncie. Friday the president makes an address at Lansing, Mich.
